WAVE PUBLISHING

675 West 100 South Heber City
CALL 654-1471

An era comes to an end as moving crews load one of the last operational Intertype typesetting machines in the west from Wave Publishing in Heber City. The Intertype machine was used as the main typesetting machine for over fifty years until it was replaced in the last few years by faster electronic computers. The aging typesetter will go on display in the Park City Museum and will then return to Heber Valley as part of a historic display that is planned by Wave Publishing in the next three years. 14 Sep 1988
